EVENING EDITION.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, JANUARY 1.

LECTURE OF DR. BRANTLEY.—Our readers will bear in mind the lecture of Rev. Dr. Brantly, for the benefit of the Young Men's Library Association, at the Davis Hall, Saturday night. The lecturer is a finished scholar, an eloquent divine and will present his audience with an intellectual repast of the highest order.

It should be borne in mind, also, that the lecture of Dr. Brantley is a free gift to the Association, and that every dollar of the net proceeds will be appropriated to the Library.

MINUTES OF THE NORTH GEORGIA ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF THE M. E. CHURCH SOUTH.—For a copy of the above work we are indebted to Rev. Atticus G. Haygood, Secretary of the Conference.

DIFFERENT FATES.—Fifteen years ago, a slender young Englishman sought employment as a writer in the newspaper offices of Chicago, introducing himself as a brother of Charles Dickens. He was unsuccessful in this application, says the Chicago Republican, but for years after, filled a desk in the Illinois Central Railroad offices in this city, always struggling with narrow circumstances. His death took place some eight months ago. In our city news it will be seen that his widow has followed him to the other world, leaving his children orphans. The great English novelist stated, without reserve, to a gentleman in Boston, that whatever American cities he visited, family reasons would prevent his going to Chicago. We trust he may early be advised that the barriers are being withdrawn. The poverty stricken brother is dead, and his widow is in her grave. As the orphans have never seen Uncle Charles, they probably would not run to his arms.

☞ A correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette, writing from Washington on the 28th ultimo, says: "The peculiar friends of General Grant are becoming alarmed at the signs of the times. For the purpose of dissuading the leading spirits from any premature hostility, they hasten to asseverate in the strongest terms, the abject submission to the will and superior judgment of Congress of the incoming hero and conqueror. 'So far,' say they, 'from having expressed an emphatic opinion in favor of the repeal of the civil-tenure law, General Grant to-day, in reference to a published statement to which his attention had been called, said he had not given any attention to the subject, as he thought the matter properly belonged to Congress, which body understood the question better than he did himself.' The Chronicle, whose editor knows the falsity of this statement, as it stands, nevertheless copies it, for the purpose of insinuating a few words of comfort to the General, and at the same time preparing him for additional Congressional manipulation."

☞ Every county in Georgia except five, says the Macon Telegraph—Liberty, Chattahoochee, Muscogee, Chattooga and Catoosa—bears the name of some man. Four of these five exceptions are purely Indian, and the fifth is one of his chief characteristics, for no people ever enjoyed as much "liberty" as the Indians. They include a long list of prominent men who have figured in the history of the State, commencing with James Oglethorpe, the first civil and military Governor, under the Trustees, from July 15, 1732, to June 9, 1752, and come down to General John B. Gordon, of the late war. In the list national heroes and statesmen are largely represented. In Southwestern Georgia we find Clay, Calhoun and Webster grouped together in the order in which they lived—Calhoun south, Webster northeast and Clay west.

GEORGIA AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON.—A friend in Washington, says the Macon Telegraph, drops us a letter on the 26th, in which he says: "I have been here two days and find Georgia affairs a muddle, though we have a good many friends. Still the result is very doubtful. The Reconstruction Committee are to report immediately on the assembling of Congress, and action will be taken, I think, before the meeting of our Legislature, on the 13th of January; you have, therefore, but a short time to work.

"I had a very pleasant interview with Senator Sherman to-day, and told him many facts that he did not know. If it is possible, I shall remain a few days in Washington after the Congressional recess is over."

COLUMBIA AND AUGUSTA RAILROAD. The first trains over the Columbia and Augusta Railroad came over it from Columbia to Graniteville last Wednesday, and we learn from the Columbia Phœnix that the road will soon be completed. It says:

"The injunction case of the South Carolina Railroad Company against the Columbia and Augusta Railroad Company will be dissolved by the decision of Judge Platt, which orders a jury to assess damages. Under this ruling of the court the work will, it is understood, be resumed immediately, and the road pushed through to Augusta with all possible speed."

PRESIDENT OF THE STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The Augusta Constitutionalist learns that Mr. David Dickson has declined the Presidency of the State Agricultural Society.

The Society will meet in this city in February next, when, we presume, another President will be elected.

MACON AND AUGUSTA RAILROAD.—At a meeting of the Macon City Council on Tuesday evening, an ordinance was passed appropriating $50,000 to aid in the completion of the Macon and Augusta Railroad.

IN LUCK.—Last evening Capt. V. P. Sisson, en route home, stepped into the Drug Store of Redwine & Fox, and invested ten cents in a package of Lorillard's "Fine Cut," which, on opening, lo! and behold, was found to contain a "Greenback" X cozily therein contained.

The General Amnesty—How it is Received.

With a solitary exception, so far as we have seen, the press of the North either pass in silence or approve the recent proclamation of the President. The National Intelligencer has the following admirable remarks on the document:

The act of amnesty indeed seems fitly to belong to an anniversary on which the hosts of Heaven uttered their accents of praise for His inestimable gift to man, saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will towards men." On this day, therefore, sacred through all the long years of the Christian era to thoughts of love, charity, kindness, and mutual good will, we find the President responding to the lessons which the day invokes with an act, the spirit of which cannot be mistaken. In this he has struck a key note which will be caught up by the great body of the people. Intelligent, sagacious and eminently practical, the American people are to-day sincerely anxious for peace, harmony, and a real restoration of the Union; they want not merely a territorial sovereignty, but a knitting together once more in fraternal harmony of the forces lately jarring and at war, destined soon, we trust, to "march all one way."

This yearning of the national heart is not to put off with words or promises; it demands substantial positive acts. The proclamation of to-day will be hailed as a real tangible step toward peace. By its spirit and lesson will be tested those who shall succeed to the grave responsibilites of power, and if they shall be found wanting in carrying out the doctrine this document teaches; if they shall be found examining into the party affiliations of individuals before removing distranchisements and disabilities, perpetuating bitterness and irritation, instead of pursuing a broad and generous policy to unite the nation, most assuredly the cheat will be detected and this party condemned. For this reason especially, as an example and a standard to others, do we hail this proclamation. It makes it very easy for the incoming administration to pursue a policy of peace and reconciliation, if they really have these noble ends at heart; and it makes it also extremely difficult for them to follow out an opposite course, if it shall be found that the professions of peace by which the election was carried were a mere expedient of the hour, soon to be discarded upon some shallow view of party advantage.

No great party, hoping and expecting to retain power, can afford such an unfavorable contrast as would be presented if this Christmas offering, made without respect to persons on the altar of peace and national concord, shall end here, and be followed by no acts of broad and generous rivalry from the Republican party. In this document President Johnson has not inquired whether those to be affected by its provisions are his personal friends or his foes, politically for him or against him; he includes all in his amnesty. By the light of this example, what shall be said of any who may hereafter propose some more piece meal removal of disabilities, relieving a few partisans to subserve mere party ends, and tending to no general pacification or reunion of the whole country.

The Tribune approves, but snarls out a "regret" at "the dribbling, undignified, popularity-seeking way in which this great matter has been treated; but it cannot be denied that it is high time the farce were ended."

Forney's Philadelphia Press is the exception referred to above. The following is its ill-natured comment:

President Johnson's Proclamation in which he deliberately sets himself against the 14th Constitutional amendment, and attempts to pardon the enemies of the government in the late rebellion, is the latest of his eleventh-hour expedients. There seems to be little opportunity or even disposition to punish these reckless men; but if anything could induce Congress to refuse to relieve them, it is this constant effort of the President to defy the Constitution and the laws and to set them free under his proclamation. The question has been repeatedly settled that his pardoning power does not reach these cases; but he seems disposed to disregard all authority, and to terminate his career in the Presidency by proving that his counsel in the beginning of it, that "traitors should be punished and be made to take a back seat," was utterly insincere and dishonest. Should Davis, Beauregard, Mason, and others, attempt to resume their rights under this proclamation, a case will be made up of some interest. Congress will no doubt take early notice of it.

The Restoration of the Constitution South and North.

From the Herald of the 23d.]

All great struggles bring certain destructive elements to the surface, against which a governing code, modelled in time of peace, cannot provide. When the life of a nation is threatened, new laws spring to the front, born of the moment and strong in their warlike birth. The country which has not the stamina to follow their lead takes a long step backward—fails to hold its own in the race of civilization. So it has been in our own late struggle. Two systems, both gigantic, grew side by side, under most favorable circumstances. One was ultra-liberalism, the other was feudalism nursed by the forces which have been brought so vigorously into action in this century. Side by side they grew under the same Constitution until the parasite threatened to destroy the tree and, as a consequence, wreck both. The South rudely trampled it under foot. The North also ignored the primal law, and finding it entirely unsuited to cope with that which threatened to blot out the Constitution and the nation at the same time, did not hesitate to deal blows at the rebellion, even though the sabre strokes clipped the great code at the same time. Doing this we saved the nation. Who is there in all the broad miles we hold who would have preferred the salvation of a piece of parchment?

We were without a fundamental code during our rebellion, and we have been without one since the war closed; for there is no constitution existing so long as any one of its parts is ignored. The non-recognition of one item implies the right to ignore another, and so on until it vanishes away on the principle of secession. In all this we of the Union did well; but it has required an immense quantity of common sense to preserve our liberties during this epoch. Nothing but the general diffusion of education, the power of the press, the vigor and governing force of the elements of progress amongst us, have prevented the loss of our form of government, and the adoption of a military dictatorship. The war threw the constitution upon the people, and no greater proof exists of the strength of Republicanism than the fact that for seven years we have held our old form of government safely on deposit. We have patiently waited for the men whom we have placed in power to follow our desires, like true statesmen, and restore it subject to the alterations which we alone have made by the sword. When any Congress refuses this, it becomes unrepublican and dictatorial, forcing, as it were, its own desires into the foreground and basing laws upon them, instead of simply shaping our wishes into legal form. It is only in monarchical countries that the people are supposed not to know what they want or what is best for them. If Congress forgets this, then have we taken the first step towards a firmer centralization. To preserve our liberties we must sweep aside the dross that has accumulated in Washington. The men there must fall or recognize immediately as a first principle that no man can lead the people.

With the same good sense which has enabled us to march on in our national greatness, ignoring for a period our fundamental law, we now feel that the moment has arrived for a complete restoration of that law, both South and North. If there still exists brains so weak that they think that the former feudal princes of the South can trample upon and bar the mightiest progress in the world's history, they were scarcely worthy of living to enjoy the product of electricity and steam. We are beginning to be narrow and protective in our government policy, and consequently retrograde. Does the North wish to drag the ruins of eleven States after it as it marches onward? It is scarcely good sense when those States are now willing and able to march themselves, and consequently help instead of retard us. To become powerful again they must have a period of rest and progress. Is any one so mad as to think they will go back to look for support to the Old instead of giving entrance to the mighty New now knocking at their doors? The great ultimate object of our struggle should be to make the nation homogeous. Who can say that there are two ways of doing it—one for the North and one for the South? Last year ten of the Southern States gave less than thirty-five millions of revenue to the national support. This does not indicate prosperity, either local or national, and is scarcely a third of what they should yield when free from political disturbances. There is but one way to mend all this—let them alone and give them a chance to go to work. As there is but one direction for them to move in, they will take it, and we shall be astonished to see how rapidly they will fall in with us and help develop the wonderful riches of the Western World.

But what is the first step to all this? It rests more with ourselves than with them. It is in the hands of Congress—a Congress which must now remember that the people have elected them and demand that the mandates of the people be obeyed. The nation has endured the war, its corruptions and the natural oscillations which are the results of war. Our common sense has carried us safely through where our Congress would have wrecked us. Now we require the restoration of our fundamental code of laws, for the time has passed when national safety required it to be held in abeyance. To-day we have but one branch of government—our Congress. The Executive is a nullity; the Supreme Court bows to a power it cannot face. Let Congress now evolve the powers which the nation forced it to absorb: give back to the Executive branch its full authority; commence by a revocation of the Tenure of Office bill; show confidence in one of the first principles of our government—the division of it into three separate branches. The people wish this, and their wish is significant of action if it be refused. The danger is past. The nation during that danger, set the Constitution aside, for it was a code of peace. War was thus filled with energy. Peace has now returned to us. It requires not the concentration of war. There we, the people, ask for that which is best suited to it—the Constitution, South and North.

RAILROADS OF THE UNITED STATES.—In 1830 there were 41 miles of railroad track completed in the United States. In 1840 the number had increased to 2,147 miles; in 1850 to 7,473 miles, and in 1860 to 28,771 miles. From 1860 to 1864, a period more favorable to the destruction than the construction of railroads, 5,000 additional miles of track were built. It is estimated that by the end of 1870 there will be 50,000 miles of track in running order; that at end of this year 40,000 miles will be completed, or one mile for every 900 men, women and children. The aggregate cost of these 40,000 miles built and to be completed within the year, is $1,800,000,000—at an average of $45,000 per mile. By way of comparison it is stated that the cost of the 13,289 miles of railroad in Great Britain, at the close of 1864, was no less than £456,420,000, a sum half as large as the debt of that kingdom, and a full third larger than the cost of our own roads, having a threefold length.

The Spectre Dream.

A NEW YEAR'S ADDRESS TO THE PATRONS OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The clock strikes twelve!—the funeral bell of Time,
The old year's ... tolls on the midnight hour;
Tears lave his bier from many weeping eyes,
And sorrowing hearts join in the burial song,
As nature saddens with the plaintive dirge.
From out the grave of the old year, I see
The Prophet of the new-born one arise,
As with a vision of the Spiritual,
And Truth, the revelation it unfolds,
It shadows on my sleep, and in my dreams,
The seal of destiny, bringing the soul
A herald of the future, such as from
Our waking sense its mystery conceals.
A land of oceans, rivers vast; of vales
And mountains mingling with it, rosy skies,
No habitation in its wild I see,
Save the rude hut or wigwam here and there,
No human voice disturbs the solitude,
But that of red men, as the panther's scream
Startles the echoes from their voiceless sleep.
The deer bounds through the tangled wood; the wolf
Prowls lazily his native hills; the bear
Hears not the hunter's stealthy steps approach;
The buffalo roams harmless with his herd;
And beast and fowl and bird harmonious dwell
In nature's boundless wild. The flowers spring up
To variegate the earth, and choicest fruits
On yielding branches hang; as tree and shrub
Man bears all substance, in the simple need
Of his rude state. The dream is changed;
Another era and another race
Keep steady pace with the receding ones.
Cities and villages in order rise
To dot the plains, where, at the woodman's stroke,
The forests fell, as underneath the soil
Its treasures yielded to the husbandman.
Society and law and government
...n equal justice and on virtue based,
...ation signal into being which,

'Till fierce as wild beasts ravenous for their spoil,
They slay each other in the lust of blood.
I see strange banners, with devices new,
And serried legions tramping to and fro,
With vengeance in and on each eye and brow.
Now in quick file their hurrying columns close,
And now, like wolves upon each other set,
And, in their rage muscle and bone dissect,
More callous than with scientific skill.
Groans of the dead and dying rise—despair,
All voices blend in one, and agony
Shrieks in the track where Death no sepulture
Asks for the countless victims in his train.
Mothers run to and fro in friendless streets,
Bearing the helpless in their quivering arms,
As Terror reigns the Monarch of all lands
Men have forgotten, as in a deep sleep,
The blessings of the present, or to prize
The glories of the past. The sun is set,
That shone upon the nations in their pride.
The stricken stars are toppling from their spheres,
Like glow-worms in the universe to fade,
As night and chaos close above the scene.
The silken tie of social unity
Is broken, and the brotherhood of man
A fratricidal hand, in hatred, lifts,
Each looking on the other with distrust.
The child scarce knows, when the parental eye
On his is set, the meaning in its look,
So changed are all things, as to anarchy

Of Death and Hell let loose upon earth.

DEATH OF MRS. W. H. T. WALKER.—The Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel of yesterday says: "A dispatch was received here yesterday from Albany, New York, by a relative in this city, announcing the death of Mrs. W. H. T. Walker, widow of the gallant Major General of that name in the Confederate army, who died on the field of battle toward the close of the struggle. Mrs. Walker died very suddenly from a disease of the heart."

Extract from a letter from Jerusalem.]

"We started early to ascend Mt. Olivet, to behold the sun gild the minarets and towers of the devoted city, from the place where memory, stirred by a thousand associations, should exalt the mind as well as the eye to the inspiration of the scene. Well is the voyager repaid for long travels, horrid roads, antediluvian cookery, squalid companionship and the importunities of begging, thieving Arabs. Well would it have repaid you, oh! man of commerce and the crucible! and well might you have been reminded of your own city, for here, painted upon a board nailed against one of the huge ancient olive trees, under which the sacred martyrs toiled for the sins of the world, eighteen hundred years ago, were these familiar figures, S. T.—1860—X. We do not know who did it, but no doubt some poor invalid traveler, cured by the PLANTATION BITTERS, wished to advertise their virtues in a place from whence all knowledge flows."

ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

FROM WASHINGTON.

Express Robbers Handed Over to the United States Authorities.

WASHINGTON, January 1.—The day was very disagreeable.

There were the usual number of receptions. A noticeable feature was the absence of wines and liquors.

Butler and Morton visited the President. Grant's staff called in a body.

No commercial news received here.

PHILADELPHIA, January 1.—Mayor Fox was inaugurated.

It is sleeting and disagreeable.

CHICAGO, January 1.—The jury in the libel suit of Mrs. Wilkinson vs. the Chicago Tribune, found for complainant the sum of $7,500.

PARIS, January 1.—The conference on the Eastern questions has been postponed. Its meeting is improbable.

WINDSOR, CANADA, Jan. 1, 1869.—Morton and Thompson, express robbers, were handed over to the United States authorities this evening.

MADRID, Jan. 1.—Disturbances occurred in Malaga, when barricades were erected in the streets by a portion of the people. The disorder is likely to be easily suppressed.

The Carlist agitation continues in Navarre.

PARIS, Jan. 1.—Official journals say that Emperor Napoleon in addressing the foreign ambassadors on New Year's Day, will compliment them upon exertions made by the Powers to settle the Eastern question as a new pledge of peaceful policy, which Europe desires. It is reported that the conference, to be held, will adhere to the Turkish circular.

... from Athens says the Greek ... has gone to Cerigo to ... and volunteers ... in that island.

CONSTANTINOPLE, January 1.—The Turkish government since the departure of the ... Envoy, shows good feeling toward ... residents of that city.

The Turquie newspaper says the Porte has not accepted, and probably will not approve the proposition of an European Conference.

ST. PETERSBURG, January 1.—The Journal, of this city, editorially expresses the hope that the Porte will withdraw its ultimatum, sent to Greece, before the Conference assembles.

LONDON, January 1.—A dispatch from Wigan reports a terrible explosion at Haydock Colliery. Twenty-two dead bodies have already been taken out of the mine.

DUBLIN, January 1.—Cole Bates, Justice of the Peace, at Tipperary, was shot dead by unknown parties. No arrests.

THE CASE OF THE GEORGIA SENATORS. We clip the subjoined from the Washington dispatches to the New York Herald of the 20th:

The rejection of Senators Hill and Miller, of Georgia, by the United States Senate, is urged by a colored delegation under the lead of a Mr. Turner, as well as by the white delegation, at the head of which is Governor Bullock. The colored men base their opposition, it would seem, more upon personal grounds of indignation against the Democratic party for what they term its base ingratitude than on the ineligibility of the candidates by reason of any provisions in the reconstruction laws. The Senators who are now seeking admission, they contend, were elected by the help of colored votes in the Georgia Legislature; but afterwards the party to which they belong, forgetting the service thus rendered, turned round and expelled their faithful and too confiding allies. The influence at work in favor of Messrs. Hill and Miller is of such an important and respectable character that it is thought the Judiciary Committee cannot, with much show of reason, report adversely against them. Such men as ex-Governor Joseph E. Brown and General Meade back up the claims of the applicants mentioned, while opposed to them are merely the partisans of Gov. Bullock and the colored men that are smply seeking to be advanced.

GOSSIP ABOUT UPPER GEORGIA, ETC.—Major Burns, late Comptroller General and now Senator from the Floyd District, was in our office on Monday. The Major brings a good report from Floyd. He says it is teeming with abundance, and every interest of the county is looking up. Land is in demand at twenty to forty dollars per acre. Immigration is coming in rapidly. Rome now numbers six thousand people, and we speculated as to the probability that she would, in a few years, be the largest interior town in Georgia. Corn was so abundant that at distances from the railroads it had been selling as low as thirty cents a bushel. Coal was worth, by retail, twenty-five cents per bushel. Money was quite plenty and trade brisk. The railways had put the city in cheap and easy communication with the vast coal and iron deposits of that region, and they were looking forward to beginning shortly a kind of Southern Pittsburg.

Speaking of the approaching session of the Legislature, Major Burns was of opinion that it would simply pass a resolution, disavowing any purpose to violate the Reconstruction acts, or run counter to the Reconstruction policy of Congress, and proposing to submit the eligibility question to judicial arbitrament, and then adjourn, leaving Congress to provide for the succession, if it desires to do so.—Macon Telegraph.

CONTRACTING FOR HANDS FOR 1869.—Our planters are now freely entering into contracts for freedmen for 1869. Prices range from $65 to $125 in money and rations.—About $90 is the average. The system of planting upon shares is less popular than it was a year ago. The plan of paying men according to their worth is now universally recognized and adopted. It is certainly but just. Worthy and industrious men and boys ought to be paid more than idle, lazy fellows.

Upon this head, it affords us pleasure to observe the friendly feeling everywhere prevailing between the white and black races of Georgia. The feeling of estrangement and bitterness for a short time produced by the perfidious politicians has died out, for the simple and plain reason there was no ground for it, and it is to their mutual interest to live upon good terms with each other. We look upon these poor black people with the kindliest feelings, and refuse to become embittered against them as a class.—Macon Telegraph.

From the proficiency to which they have attained in so short a time, we predict for them a future of eminent success in their profession.

MILTONIAN TABLEAUX OF PARADISE LOST. Perhaps there has been no subject which has exercised the thought and imagination of the Divine, the Poet, the Scholar, and the Artist so much. It has an all absorbing interest. Milton, in his everlasting epic, has immortalized it in his glorious verse. Martin, with his genius, has made his canvas glow with the awful subject.—The great Michael Angelo, in his wonderful hurling of the arch-fiend from Heaven, by the still greater Archangel Michael, has in stone wrought a life in such material, that it is scarcely conceivable. The works of Martin and Michael Angelo we have not in our midst, but we are to have at the Davis Hall, a Panorama worthy a visit, in which all the great scenes are depicted.—Some of them are thrilling in the extreme. We can but recommend every one to see it.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—The old Council held a meeting in the Senate Chamber last Thursday evening. Several resolutions relating mainly to the payment of checks, salaries, granting time for committees to report, etc., were adopted; and another resolution, offered by Mr. Gullatt, to the effect that forty city fire bonds, $100 each, be burned, was also adopted. They were consequently committed to the flames.

I. O. O. F.—At a meeting of Central Lodge, No. 28, held on Tuesday evening last, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

L. H. Clarke, Noble Grand.
J. C. Rogers, Vice Grand.
B. F. Bennett, Secretary.
J. R. Gramling, Treasurer.

This Lodge is now in the 29th year of its existence, and we are pleased to learn, was never in a more prosperous condition than at the present time. The officers elect will be installed on Tuesday evening next, by P. G. M. Thomas P. Fleming.

RETIREMENT OF THE OLD CITY COUNCIL. Installation of the New.—Valedictory of J. E. Williams.—Inaugural of W. H. Hulsey. Salaries of Officers.—Standing Committees. The old City Council met at the City Hall last night, and after the transaction of some business preparatory to a change in administration, Mayor Williams delivered a graceful and appropriate salutatory to the retiring Board, as reported below, when a committee of three were appointed by the Mayor to inform the newly elected officers that the old ones had closed their labors and were ready to retire. After conducting the newly elected members into the Hall, Mayor Williams administered the oath of office to Col. Hulsey, and that officer in turn to each member of the new Board, all of whom were present.

The valedictory of J. E. Williams, the retiring Mayor, was as follows:

Gentlemen of the City Council: Our term of office is brought to a close, and it only remains to us to surrender to others the power and authority which we have exercised. Before doing so I trust you will pardon me whilst, for a few moments, I refer to the past.

For two eventful years you have zealously labored to promote the interests that were committed to your care. From the beginning to the close of your administration, important public events have greatly increased your embarrassment. It was not the least of the calamitous results of the late war that the well-settled powers of the Government—State and municipal—were practically broken up and, in the re-adjustment that followed, much was left to the good sense and discretion of those exercising public functions.

Such has been your wisdom and moderation that you have been enabled steadily and successfully to direct the city government through a period that was perilous indeed to the State. I point with the greatest pride to your Police. A more important or delicate duty has seldom been imposed, than was that of preserving the peace of the city during the years last past. One of the alarming evils consequent upon the war was a lessening of respect for law, and particularly for municipal law.

A large military force was located in and around the city. A formidable element of population, then newly introduced to freedom, gathered in and aspired to the control of society; political struggles followed and all this dangerous material was fanned almost to a flame. I have seen the time when a slight indiscretion might have given the city over to riot and bloodshed. But with the lofty purpose of faithfully discharging a high public trust, thirty men—including officers, have, by the exercise of patience, firmness, kindness, and courage, faithfully enforced the law and we have been saved from scenes that have darkened and saddened in other quarters. To the police of Atlanta, the people owe a debt of everlasting gratitude. Ambition may lead a man to daring heights, where the eyes of the world are upon him, but what else than a sense of duty is it, that makes the sleepless city sentinel to stand unfalteringly at his post, the watchful guardian of a slumbering city? The truest heroism that adorns human character, is that which is shown where the lowly and unobserved, tread steadfastly in the path of duty—that your police have done.

Equally efficient in the sphere is your Fire Department. They cannot prevent or control the accident or design that causes the fire, but their praise and the truth are spoken when I say that a fire in Atlanta never spreads. It is believed that a more thoroughly organized and efficient volunteer Fire Department does not exist in any city of the Union.

It is not allowable that I should, now here, speak with particularity of what has been accomplished in all the different departments during your administration. Let it be enough to say that you have neglected none of them. By judicious management the destitute have been cared for without undue cost. An active and capable Street Committee and Superintendent have greatly and permanently improved the streets. An abundant supply of water has been procured and after securing the Capitol, you have prepared more handsome and commodious rooms for the use of the State than it ever had in the days of its prosperity.

When you came into office the financial condition of the city was unsatisfactory, in consequence, partly, of the discovery of the defalcation of the former City Treasurer, and in addition to that capitalists were not inclined to purchase the bonds of a city that was the heart of a military government. With judicious management on your part and a change in political matters, we have a return of confidence and our city securities are almost at par. Whilst at times we have widely differed in reference to the propriety of measures, it affords me no little pleasure to remember that our personal and friendly intercourse has at no time been disturbed. And now, on severing our official connection, I know that you will unite with me in expressing the hope that our beloved city has in reserve for it a continued increase of prosperity and usefulness. There is no reason for assigning to it a limit in either. If the administration of its affairs is wisely conducted, its growth in the future will be more rapid than it has been in the past. To ensure this enlarged prosperity it must act promptly and deal generously and liberally.

With a reawakening of the slumbering material interests of the country will come increased rivalry and the race may be to the swift. That Atlanta will be ready and that she will be true to her possible destiny we will not doubt.

Col. Hulsey being duly installed into office, delivered the following chaste, beautiful, and eloquent inaugural:

Gentlemen of the City Council: We are here this evening for the purpose of entering upon the discharge of our duties as Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Atlanta, for this, the year 1869. Invoking the guidance of Him who rules over all, let us begin the work before us with an energy and a determination that will fully meet the expectations of those who have confided to our keeping, for the present year, the well being of our city.

It is, perhaps, unnecessary to remind you, that upon us devolve responsibilities of the highest character, and that to our keeping is given every trust that affects the public, and to some extent, the private interests of our citizens.

Believing, as I do, that each and all of you have recognized these facts, and that you are armed with that will necessary to a full and faithful discharge of your respective duties, I bid you God speed in your work, and pledge you, here and now, my full co-operation, and my entire energies in every measure you may inaugurate that will redound to the good of our city.

The history of our city I do not propose to review, except that part of it which has reference to the time which has elapsed since the close of the late war. Nor do I propose to refer to that period, but in a very brief way, for it opens up a field too extended for me to travel over on this occasion.

A little over three years ago we returned to our homes to find that over them had swept a tide which had hurled thousands of the noblest and best among us into the gulf of financial ruin. They saw, where their homes of ease and comfort had been, only charred remains. How gloomy the picture! How paralyzed must have been the energies of those who found the effects of their early and honest labors thus swept away—without means and without aid! How and what could conduct them back into the channels of thrift and property?

This is soon told. Active brains planned, stout hearts willed, and brawny arms labored. By and through these agencies, our city has sprung, within the short period of three years, from the ashes of ruin and devastation, to as proud and prosperous a position as any in the Southern States; in fact, its progress—all things considered—has been equal to that of any in the United States. Her citizens seem to have turned their backs upon the misfortunes of the past, and, with heads erect, and spirits unbroken, they are marching together to the front grounds of prosperity—van-guards—clearing the way, so that all who may take courage, may follow their example.

Though she was the camping-ground on the great march to the sea; and though she seemed doomed to destruction, yet the torches that lit our homes, kindled in our fellow-citizens an energy that will never go out until we shall have reared a city of which Georgians, in any land, may proudly boast.

Of the financial status of the city I know but little, since, up to now, I have had no data from which to make an estimate; but I take it for granted that it is good, inasmuch as it has been, for the last two years, in the hands of those good men whom the people called to their service, and who now retire from a labor which I hope has been well performed. But I would, however, recommend that as soon as possible our condition in this respect be ascertained, in order that we may know how to shape the expenditures of the city.

If we have much to contribute to the improvement of the city and the advancement of her interests, let it be judiciously and liberally expended. If we have but little, let it, likewise, be judiciously and economically, cautiously and sparingly expended; for, in no event must the credit of our city be tarnished. Let us measure well what we contract to pay by what we have to pay. If we work by this rule I think all will be well. Economy never injured any one financially; extravagance has ruined many. Let us beware.

Of taxation for the year upon which we are just entering I can say nothing, because I cannot tell what amount of money will be needed to defray the expenses of the city.

Perhaps there is nothing more important for you to consider than the police organization of our city, for in its fidelity, efficiency and energy lie, especially in these times, the good order, peace and dignity of our community. Let us, from among the good, select the very best, for the discharge of the duties of the various positions to be filled, not only in this, but in all other departments. And let us require them to discharge their duties and hold them responsible for any failure. Sentinels on the watch tower must watch.

I come now to speak of the Fire Department of the city, and it gives me pleasure to say, that, in my humble judgment, it is one of the most efficient fire corps in the South—an honor to the city and a type of her enterprise. The enemy against which our firemen war, has been Atlanta's strongest foe. Let us see to it that they are always ready, armed and equipped, when the alarm is sounded.

In conclusion, let me say, I shall, at all times, co-operate with you in any and every measure that will further the interests of our city. Let us diligently labor together for her common good, and when our term of office shall have expired—when our work is finished—may it be said: WELL DONE.

The next business in order was the appointment of a Committee on Salaries, whose report being adopted, with several changes, was as follows:

City Clerk, $1,200 per annum, with perquisites; Treasurer, $800 per annum; Attorney, $700 per annum; Tax Receiver and Collector, $800 per annum; Hall Keeper, $40 per month; Surveyor, $5 per day, while employed; Magazine Keeper, $60 per month; Clerks of Market, $40 per month: two City Physicians, $900 per annum each; Superintendent Alms House, $800; City Marshal, $1,100, and perquisites; Deputy Marshal, $1,100, with perquisites; Lieutenants of Police, $1,000 each; Policemen, $2,25 per day; Overseer Streets, $1,000.

STANDING COMMITTEES—The following Standing Committees were announced, His Honor, the Mayor, asking further time to complete the list:

On Salaries—Carr, Anderson, Mahoney.
On Finance—Carr, McCamy, O'Keefe.
On Streets—McCamy, Brotherton, Mahoney.
On Police—Roach, Anderson, Sisson.
On Fire—Anderson, Howell, Sisson.

It is due the retiring Board to state that they have been faithful public servants. Laboring under many difficulties in the performance of their duties, they have at all times had the welfare of the city at heart. They have worked successfully in the discharge of a difficult trust. Of Col. Williams, the retiring Mayor, we would speak more feelingly. Knowing the difficulties he has had to surmount during the most trying periods in our history, we appreciate his services in behalf of the city. After three successive terms of office under the most adverse circumstances, he has the proud satisfaction of retiring from the public service with the plaudit of "well done good and faithful servant" from the entire community.

Col. Hulsey, our new Mayor, enters upon his office with a brilliant future in store. Rarely does it fall to the lot of one so young in years to take charge of the interests of so important a city as Atlanta. Yet he brings to its support qualifications of the finest order, and a zeal in the public service, which are sure anguries of success. We predict for him a brilliant and successful administration.

The new Board of Aldermen combine all the requisite qualifications for the faithful and successful prosecution of the work before them. It is composed of "live men"—men of financial and administrative ability, in whose hands every interest of the city will be closely guarded, and whose ambition will be to place Atlanta prominent on the high road of prosperity in store for her.

The following municipal officers were elected:

Clerk of Council—S. B. Love.
Chief Marshal—Jno. Thomas.
Chief Police—E. C. Murphy.
First Lieutenant—Jno. L. Johnson.
Second Lieutenant—G. W. Anderson.
1st City Physician—Chas. Pinckney.
2d City Physician—E. S. Ray.
City Attorney—Reuben Arnold.
Street Overseer—Geo. Stewart.
City Treasurer—W. W. Clayton.
Supt. Alms House—W. Y. Langford.
Hall Keeper—Pat. Fitzgibbon.
Tax Collector—L. P. Thomas.
Magazine Keeper—W. W. Davis.
City Surveyor—W. B. Bass.
Clerks of Market—Postponed.

On motion the Council adjourned until next Tuesday night.

INSTALLATION LAST NIGHT.—The public Installation of the officers of Barnes Lodge No. 55, I. O. O. F., came off at Templars' Hall last night. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the hall was well filled with ladies and gentlemen. The Installation was conducted in the usual form of the order, and was performed in quite an impressive manner. At the conclusion of the Installation, L. J. Glenn, Noble Grand announced the names of the following gentlemen to fill the offices specified:

Warden, H. Elleby; Conductor, J. G. Thrower; R. S. to N. G., T. P. Fleming; L. S. to N. G., J. S. Mitchell; R. S. S., J. L. Crenshaw; L. S. S., J. D. Robinson: I. G., L. H. Alexander; O. G., S. P. Goodman; Chaplain, W. S. Bradbury.

After which, Vice Grand R. P. Bush announced the following as his supporters:

R. S., B. J. Hutchins; L. S., J. J. Leonard.

At the conclusion of which, Grand Marshal Bennett declared the Installation of the officers of Barnes Lodge complete.

Noble Grand Glenn, on taking his seat, announced that an address would be delivered. Past Grand Fleming came forward and delivered a short, but chaste and eloquent address, submitting facts, figures, and illustrations, which were convincing in character. All were delighted—all were edified.

OUR streets are crowded with strangers, new comers and new things. The man with the wonderful solder performs wonders on tin, copper, brass, iron, silver and gold, mending holes, rents, etc. The benzine erasive soap man continues to lather all creation, and persists in sticking his tooth paste on all who have a quarter. His songs are merry and his jokes will convulse you with laughter. It is estimated that he has sold over five thousand packages of soap in our city.

The meeting of the new City Council last night was of a very harmonious character, and the difficult and delicate matter of selecting city officers for the new year was accomplished in a most satisfactory manner. We extend to the new regime our hearty congratulations, and wish them abundant success.

☞ "Sister," said one of the brethren at a love-feast, "are you happy?"

"Yes, deacon, I feel as though I was in Beelzebub's bosom."

"Not in Beelzebub's bosom!"

"Well, in some of the patriarchs, I don't care which."

IT WILL WASH.

THIS VALUABLE IMPROVEMENT that has met with such unbounded success throughout the East, West, and North and the parts of the South where it has been introduced,
IS NOW ON EXHIBITION AND FOR SALE AT THE STORE OF
Echols, Langford & McCrath,
Key Stone Block,
Whitehall street,
Atlanta, Georgia,
Where we cordially invite all to call and see its operations. The idea of washing clothes without rubbing or wear to the material is now no longer a mystery. It is being practically used, and with entire satisfaction by many of the best citizens of this city, and hundreds and thousands of people throughout the East and West.
Mr. DeWitt is owner of the Southern and Pacific States and Territories for this valuable invention, and will sell interests by the County and State, to any one wishing a sure and paying business at prices that cannot but suit the purchaser.
States and Counties that have been sold for this improvement have since sold at enormous figures in comparison to the price we ask. For instance, Illinois was sold for $6 000 and since sold for $40 000; counties in Kentucky, that we sold for $60 the State has since sold for $600, and I can say that so far no man has invested his money but what is making a fortune. We can give name and address of nearly every one that has purchased rights in the United States, so parties correspond with them and get their views of investment they made.
For territory by Counties or States address or call on HENRY WELLINGTON, [illegible]GIA, JANUARY 1.

THE TRADE AND COMMERCE OF CHICAGO.—The following condensed table from the Chicago Republican, furnishes a summary of the flour, grain and cattle trades of that city for 1868: 2,092,553 barrels flour; 13,540,250 bushels wheat; 25,396,523 bushels corn; 14,449,486 bushels oats; 1,367,461 bushels rye; 1,511,919 bushels barley; 1,843,122 hogs; 320,801 beef cattle.

THE AMNESTY.—There is good reason for believing that President Johnson has concluded to finish up the work of amnesty and that right early, as the opinion of three members of his Cabinet to-day urged him to do so. It was argued that consistency demanded that those guilty of lesser offences should not be allowed to suffer in [illegible]ons while free pardon was granted to [illegible]ose who have been fortunate to escape [illegible]nment. A distinguished gentle[illegible] position to know, strongly insi[illegible]noon, after the regular cabinet [illegible]journed, that the political [illegible] Tortugas would soon [illegible]mprisonment. It is [illegible]e supposed, however, that all this [illegible]n the form of coin, nor even of coin [illegible]bars. A certain portion of the supply [illegible]old and silver has been taken for com[illegible]cial purposes. That form of consump[illegible] has been largely increased within late [illegible]rs, under the high duties on jewelry [illegible] plate, and perhaps could not be safely [illegible]mated at less than $10,000,000 per an[illegible]. Assuming this to be a full estimate, [illegible]ducting only $70,000,000 from the [illegible]r balance, we should have about [illegible] as the present stock of coin [illegible]the Atlantic States."

Prophitt's Liver Medicine.
Prophitt's Pain Kill It.
Prophitt's Anti-Bilious Pills.

The excellent remedies of O. S. Prophitt, M. D., need no recommendation. Their well known power in removing the diseases peculiar to our Southern Climate, having already established for them an enviable reputation in Georgia and the adjoining States. As the majority of persons living in the South are pre-disposed to disease of the Liver, it is granted by all intelligent physicians that most of the pains and aches of our people are due to organic or functional derangement of that important organ. Prophitt's Anti-Bilious Pills and Liver Medicine strike directly at the root of the evil. They cure the Liver which, in nine cases out of ten, is at the bottom of the Coughs, Dyspepsia, Colic, Sick Headache, Rheumatism, Constipation, Menstrual Obstructions etc., so common among our people. Earache Toothache, Acute Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and bodily pains of every kind, flee before PROPHITT'S PAIN KILL IT like chaff before the wind
